UNIQUE CHURCH IN LINCS WILL BE RETHATCHED

Press—No Problem

THERE is a lighter side to work among the smaller villages of Lincolnshire, thinks Rev. A. O. Simpson, new Rector of the Barkwith Group of Parishes.

This is a notice which he found on the console of a church organ in his group: "By pressing these buttons you can change your combinations without removing your feet from the pedals."

NURSERY AT CHURCH

ST. LEONARD'S Church, Newark, Mothers' Union have opened a weekly nursery for under fives at the church hall.

Mothers are invited to leave their "toddlers" while they shop, visit the hair-dressers or just sleep.

WHEN they talk of the restoration of St. Peter's Church, Markby, near Alford, the only thatched church in the diocese, they really mean it.

Six Months From Idea To Building

SOME churches and chapels have to work for years in order to raise sufficient capital to pay for alterations, improvements or additions to their existing buildings.

But not so Potterhanworth Methodist Church. In September of last year the officials of the chapel decided that, as the existing Sunday School was in such a dilapidated state and would need such a large sum of money spending on it to bring it up to standard, it would be more advisable and economical to build a new one.

Money-raising started in January; now building has begun.

When builders took the thatch off recently, ready for rethatching, the 16th century church practically fell down.

Instead of being faced with comparatively minor repairs, Dr. E. H. Fletcher, Vicar of Bilsby and of St. Peter's, had a ruin on his hands.

He was so upset by the gaunt sight of the building that he asked the Bishop of Lincoln, Rt. Rev. Kenneth Riches, to examine it.

TO GO AHEAD

The Bishop did so, and wrote to Dr. Fletcher asking him what he thought was best.

"I called in an architect, and on his advice, and because this is the only thatched church in the diocese, have decided to go ahead with the restoration," said Dr. Fletcher.

He estimates it will cost £1,500, but is not worried about raising this amount. There is £400 in hand, and he believes that there will be generous help from various Trusts, and friends.

Mr. W. K. Smith, who is carrying out the work, said, "The place was dangerous. We had to keep our eyes open for falling timber."

And to illustrate his point, he stuck his finger deep into a 16th century oak beam, riddled with woodworm, which had been taken from the roof.

Good timber, and the best Norfolk reeds for the roof will soon make this unique church, which was erected from the remains of an Augustinian Priory after 1534, once again an attraction for tourists and photographers.

Rebuilding At The College

EXTENSIVE rebuilding and additional buildings are now being erected on the site of Lincoln Theological College, nearest Drury-lane and Wordsworth-street, Lincoln.

It is hoped that the work will be completed on October 18, and the Master of the Temple, London, Canon T. R. Milford, a former Chancellor of Lincoln Cathedral, has been asked to inaugurate the new lecture room.

49 Campaigns?

Forty-nine Christian Stewardship Campaigns have been completed in the Lincoln Diocese in 1961. Sixteen were diocese advised; 21 run by companies and 12 run by parishes independently.

17th Century Relic May Be Used In Restoration Scheme

PART of what is believed to be an old altar is to be lifted from the floor of the south aisle of Nettleham Parish Church and may

Do you know this church? Served by Friars from Woodhall Spa, it is the Catholic Church of St. Augustine at Wellingore, and is used chiefly as a Mass centre. It was built by the Neville family, of Wellingore Hall, and access from the church to the hall was provided.

CHURCHMAN'S DIARY

A MAN whose great-grandmother laid the foundation stone on the north wing of the picturesque Church of St. Paul's, Morton, Gainsborough, performed the opening ceremony of the church's annual garden fete, held on the Vicarage lawn.

He is Mr. J. E. Sandars, of Gate Burton Hall, near Gainsborough, former High Sheriff of Lincolnshire, who was christened at the church. Mr. Sandars said: "My mother often played the organ for the Sunday Services, so I have many sentimental attachments to this church."

CLOCK OUT OF ACTION

NEWARK Parish Church clock is out of action because a new electric lighting system is being installed in the church.

Vicar of Newark, Canon J. H. D. Grinter, told the Echo that the clock, which works by electrical apparatus, would be at a standstill until the re-wiring is completed. The job may take several weeks.

PSALM 23 THE FAVOURITE

OVER 10,000 people took part in the recent Favourite Bible-Text Survey, organised by the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

A local survey, run on the lines of the national one, was made by the Lincoln Adventist Church and the results were announced recently. At national level, the most popular of all the many texts submitted, was Psalm 23:1, "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."

RETURN VISIT FOR VICAR

LAST week 40 members of All Saints' Church, Lincoln, and their Vicar, Rev. Peter Clarke, visited St. Mark's Church, Laceby-road, Grimsby, for a combined service, which was conducted by Canon G. W. Markham, Vicar of Grimsby.

Mr. Clarke was priest in charge of St. Mark's when the church was built in 1960.

CHURCH—IN A TENT

HOLIDAYMAKERS at Ingoldmells may soon have the chance of going "to church" in a tent. A church marquee on Roman-bank, among the biggest concentration of caravans, is being planned by the Rector, Rev.

opened by Mrs. A. C. Jarvis, wife of the Archdeacon of Lindsey, Ven. A. C. Jarvis, who presided. Rev. H. G. Hill said prayers and Rev. E. R. Milton proposed a vote of thanks.

FELLOWSHIP MEETING

NEXT meeting of the Fellowship of the Country Clergy will be held at the Farm Institute, Caythorpe Court, Grantham, on Monday.

Host will be Mr. J. W. Roland, the principal of the institute. Afternoon tea will be served after the meeting.

MINISTER LEAVING

REV. J. Bailey Chapman, Superintendent Minister of the Holbeach Methodist Circuit, is to take over the Ripley Circuit, Derbyshire, in a similar capacity.

He succeeds Rev. C. O. Stocker who is moving to Wigan.

Fete Makes £180

ANNUAL Billingborough Church fete, held on the vicarage lawn on Saturday, was well supported in spite of light drizzle at the opening ceremony, and made a profit of about £180. The opening was performed by Miss June Green, the Spalding Tulip Queen.

Kelham Visit
CANON A. O. JONES and 40 parishioners from St.

Methodists Have A "Field Day"

MONEY in abundance should have rolled into the coffers of those responsible for the building of the new Methodist church on the Birchwood Estate, Lincoln.

The reason? The third field day held in the beautiful grounds of Somerton Castle, by permission of the owners, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Battersby. As well as all the usual side attractions associated with garden fetes, a special sports programme was arranged for everyone between the ages of eight and 21 years.

TUG-O-WAR

The sunshine helped members of the 17 churches in the circuit to thoroughly enjoy themselves, seats being staged along one of the grassy hillocks which looked down into a little valley, where all the races were run.

Sports laid on for the young people in the different age groups included athletics with egg and spoon races, high jumping, long jumping, and skipping. Open events were eight-men teams competing at tug-o-war, and a one mile race.

Ardent workers from the various sections of the circuit were in charge of other diversions, which ranged from skittling for a pig to visits to the famous "King John's Chamber," where King John II of France was imprisoned in 1359, and Mr. Battersby's dairies, where up-to-date milking equipment was demonstrated.

Highlights of the evening were a pigeon shoot, pig sale and barbecue.

This was the first time the field day has been held at Somerton Castle since 1956, though other similar projects have taken place at Bassingham.

Appointment

Bishop of Lincoln is to institute Rev. K. Entwistle to Barlings and Stainton by Langworth on Tuesday at Stainton.

£40,000 "FACE LIFT"

WHEN the renovations to Newark Parish Church are completed the church will have undergone a complete "face lift"

The renovations, which will cost a total of £40,000, have already been started and the decoration of the enrichments in the ceiling has effected a complete transformation.

Over half the money will be used on general repairs to the fabric which has been seriously affected by decaying stonework caused by an accumulation of soot.

About £7,000 will be spent on the heating of the church to displace the present unsatisfactory and uneconomical system. Another £4,000 will be spent on the necessary re-wiring of the electrical system which is in a dangerous condition from a fire risk point of view.

Major cleaning work to the interior of the church will cost in the region of £5,000, while a further £3,000 will be spent on "very urgent repairs" to the organ, caused by wear and tear over the years.

Classed as one of the finest churches in the county of Nottinghamshire, Newark Parish Church has many connections with the past. The lofty spire has been a familiar landmark to countless thousands of travellers on the Trent and Great North Road for 600 years.

from the remains of an Augustinian Priory after 1534, once again an attraction for tourists and photographers.

Rebuilding At The College

EXTENSIVE rebuilding and additional buildings are now being erected on the site of Lincoln Theological College, nearest Drury-lane and Wordsworth-street, Lincoln.

It is hoped that the work will be completed on October 18, and the Master of the Temple, London, Canon T. R. Milford, a former Chancellor of Lincoln Cathedral, has been asked to inaugurate the new lecture room.

49 Campaigns?

Forty-nine Christian Stewardship Campaigns have been completed in the Lincoln Diocese in 1961. Sixteen were diocese advised; 21 run by companies and 12 run by parishes independently.

A MAN whose great-grandmother laid the foundation stone on the north wing of the picturesque Church of St. Paul's, Morton, Gainsborough, performed the opening ceremony of the church's annual garden fete, held on the Vicarage lawn.

He is Mr. J. E. Sandars, of Gate Burton Hall, near Gainsborough, former High Sheriff of Lincolnshire, who was christened at the church. Mr. Sandars said: "My mother often played the organ for the Sunday Services, so I have many sentimental attachments to this church."

CLOCK OUT OF ACTION

NEWARK Parish Church clock is out of action because a new electric lighting system is being installed in the church.

17th Century Relic May Be Used In Restoration Scheme

PART of what is believed to be an old altar is to be lifted from the floor of the south aisle of Nettleham Parish Church and may probably be used in the church, which is in the process of being renovated.

The stone, which lies near the Lady Altar, is a stone mensa or altar top and it was found in the doorway at the restoration of the church over 70 years ago, where it had been placed either when the chancel was demolished in 1680 or earlier.

It is thought that the stone was defaced by Puritan soldiers during the Cromwell era and laid at the entrance to the church in keeping with the usual practice at that time so that people would be compelled to walk over the stone as a form of desecration.

EXCLUDED

The whole of the interior of the church will be cleaned and redecorated and incidental repairs made. The organ chamber and the Vicar's vestry are excluded from the specification.

Cost of this scheme will be in the region of £1,300, and it is the final phase of the church's restoration scheme. Work will continue for about two months, but in the meantime the church will be used for services.

Above the chancel arch are painted the Creed, Lord's Prayer and Commandments; with the late Georgian Royal Arms painted on canvas and set in a frame. These are to be restored.

£1,123 Raised For Appeal

ALTHOUGH the final figures cannot yet be calculated, the amount so far received from the house-to-house collection organised by the Lincoln Council of Churches Inter-Church Aid Committee and carried out in Lincoln in May in aid of the "Bread for the World" appeal, has already reached the sum of £1,123.

This is a magnificent response, and we would like to thank all those who helped and gave to this cause.

Leaving Lincoln

Rev. George Thompson, who has served the North Circuit of the Lincoln Methodist Church for five years, is leaving for Elland, Yorkshire.

Vicar of Newark, Canon J. H. D. Grinter, told the Echo that the clock, which works by electrical apparatus, would be at a standstill until the re-wiring is completed. The job may take several weeks.

PSALM 23 THE FAVOURITE

OVER 10,000 people took part in the recent Favourite Bible Text Survey, organised by the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

A local survey, run on the lines of the national one, was made by the Lincoln Adventist Church and the results were announced recently. At national level, the most popular of all the many texts submitted, was Psalm 23:1, "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."

RETURN VISIT FOR VICAR

LAST week 40 members of All Saints' Church, Lincoln, and their Vicar, Rev. Peter Clarke, visited St. Mark's Church, Laceby-road, Grimsby, for a combined service, which was conducted by Canon G. W. Markham, Vicar of Grimsby.

Mr. Clarke was priest in charge of St. Mark's when the church was built in 1960.

CHURCH—IN A TENT

HOLIDAYMAKERS at Ingoldmells may soon have the chance of going "to church" in a tent. A church marquee on Roman-bank, among the biggest concentration of caravans, is being planned by the Rector, Rev. Wilfred Curtis.

The plan is to hold a service for holidaymakers on Sunday mornings, a children's service, and community hymn singing on Sunday evenings.

RED TRAWLERS "LAUNCH" Lincs Girl's Brilliant IDEA FOR SPY THRILLER Record Discus Throw

BARRY BUCKNELL

I Got Money Wrong Way, Says Girl, 17

"I WAS hard up and got the money the wrong way. I should not have taken it," 17-years-old shop assistant Carol Eva Priestley told Lincoln magistrates.

Priestley, who lives with her parents at 150 Boultham Park-road, Lincoln, was fined £3 for stealing 10s from her employers, British Home Stores.

She admitted the offence, and it was said she had been with the firm since September 5, 1960, on the electrical goods counter.

Supt. T. Pickworth, prosecuting, said a store detective visited the shop in Lincoln's High-street and bought goods worth 12s 6d.

Priestley rang up 2s 6d on the till and when she rang up the next sale she took a 10s note from the till.

RUSSIAN trawlers lying off the coast of South Uist in the Western Isles, where Britain has a rocket launching base, fired the imagination of TV writer, Robert Barr, writes CATHRYN ROSE.

He saw the trawlers when he was preparing a TV documentary on the flying doctor service to these remote Scottish islands.

Now he has written a six-part spy-thriller serial with the Western Isles as a setting. Viewers can see the first episode on BBC-TV on Sunday. But though it falls at a time on a Sunday usually associated with children's programmes this is no children's serial.

Bob, a grey-haired Glasgow Scot, went back to South Uist and Benbecula in the spring to work on the serial with a location team. Many of the people whom viewers will see are not actors but genuine inhabitants of the islands, he tells me.

"The Dark Island" title of the serial derives from the sinister articles found—according to the plot—on one of the islands.

Barr has never written a serial before. He is a script editor of "Z Cars," has worked on the "Spycatcher" and "Scotland Yard" series and on many other documentaries.

His next venture will be as executive producer of "The Net," a six-part series of half-hour programmes featuring an immigration officer and his work.

While Robert Robinson is on holiday the hot seat in "Points of View" (BBC) will be taken over by journalist Alan Erien for one week and Alan Melville for the second week.

The programme now receives between 800 and 1,000 letters a week from viewers.

ANOTHER CHANNEL

This is the result of a successful hour-long documentary programme dealing with attempts at illegal entry at London Airport seen last year.

Give us another channel and we will put on "Bucknell's House" at a different time. This was the BBC's answer when, in response to viewers' requests, I asked why it is transmitted at the very miss-able time of 6.20 p.m.

Do-it-yourselfers can say what they like. The BBC knows from scientifically-worked-out statistics that most people want to watch Eric Sykes or Jimmy Edwards or Sid James—even in repeat form—between 7 p.m. and 9.30 p.m.

Barry's programme will catch about 3,000,000 viewers and this counts as a minority audience.

For after-seven viewing the BBC want to court the majority—the 10,000,000 bunch. And one way to do this is to put on programmes viewers will not readily switch off. Once caught they tend to stay on the same channel throughout the evening.

Barry himself says he has heard that many people are unhappy at the time "Bucknell's House" goes out. Letters from viewers say so.

He likes the idea of repeating the series about 10.15 p.m. to give people who miss it at 6.20 p.m., a chance to view.

All this apart, the EBC are enthusiastic about the reaction to the series. In the first 20 days they dealt with 25,000 requests for leaflets relating to work done on Bucknell's house.

While Robert Robinson is on holiday the hot seat in "Points of View" (BBC) will be taken over by journalist Alan Erien for one week and Alan Melville for the second week.

The programme now receives between 800 and 1,000 letters a week from viewers.

PAROCHIAL OUTLOOK

London attracts most people, who live in other cities, even if it is only for shopping at certain times of the year.

But the TV companies which serve the provinces tend to preserve a parochial outlook on the capital.

They have, for instance, declined Associated-Rediffusion's offer to network their Festival of London programmes.

These begin on July 9 with a reception attended by the Queen and include concerts in which Yehudi Menuhin, Artur Schnabel (making his first TV appearance anywhere) and singer Elisabeth Schwarzkopf appear.

Apart from Londoners, only viewers in Wales and Aberceen will see the Festival programmes.

WATCH OUT FOR THIS

Helen Cherry makes one of her fairly rare appearances on TV later this year. She is in a 17th-century musical play called "The Brokenstein Affair," which has just been recorded.

MICHAEL RENNIE, who is back again on BBC-TV.

Watch out for this—the sets are really sumptuous and the costumes splendid.

Oddly enough, Helen's husband Trevor Howard is also in a period play on TV. He plays opposite Ingrid Bergman in Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," later in the year.

NOT SO FLIPPANT

"Men—on Women" is the title of the programme Granada TV are doing in reply to "Women on Men," which caused quite a stir.

The men will be talking about women on July 18—with Brian Inglis as chairman and Malcolm Muggeridge talking part.

I'm told this will not be quite such a flippant programme as the one in which women discussed men.

At Granada they call it a "semi-documentary." Tony Britton changes from plain-clothes detective (in the recent "The Six Proud Walkers") to an Army colonel in the new play he is rehearsing for BBC-TV.

It is called "Up a Gum Tree" and is described as a satirical comedy featuring a British and a Russian colonel.

Others in the cast of this play, which is booked for transmission in July, include Tristram Jellinek, Fabia Drake and Dan Jackson. It has been written by William Douglas Home.

Most of the 100 yds races were very close events.

In the junior boys' 100 yds, N. Hall and G. Wollerton were both given the time of 11.2 secs, Hall being the winner.

M. Cozens and R. Key were also given the same time, Cozens winning in 14.4 secs.

An interesting point is that Hall's time in the junior race was nine tenths of a second faster than that of D. Wade.

Her closest rival was J. Ramsden of Grantham Air Rangers who threw almost half this distance—54ft. 10in.

Telebriefly...

The BBC are devoting eight programmes to The Twist, beginning on July 7. In the first programme "Compact" is matched against "Juke Box Jury" in a Twist competition.

ATV are preparing a series titled "Trials of Tomorrow." Aim is to anticipate and describe conflicts which may emerge following advances in science and technology—including excursions into space.

Associated-Rediffusion network a series of Algernon Blackwood spine-chillers in "Tales of Mystery" starting on July 4.

A MILE in 4 mins. 53.8

secs. was one of the new records set in the Kesteven County Youth Athletic Sports at R.A.F. Cranwell.

The record, in the senior boys' section was broken by P. Jessop, of the Commercial-road Methodist Youth Club. He finished well ahead of runner-up L. Blewitt, of Morton Hall, who clocked 5-5-1.

In winning the intermediate boys' mile, R. Morton, of 2160 (Sleaford) Squadron A.T.C., won with a time of 4 mins. 57 secs., but did not beat the existing record.

FAST RELAY

Two teams broke the intermediate boys' relay record. Barnhill Young People's Fellowship won in 51.2 seconds and St. Deny's Youth Fellowship were second in 52.2 secs.

Most outstanding result of the day was in the senior girls' discus competition where Miss F Vittles, of Grantham College Students Association smashed the existing record with a brilliant throw of 113ft. 4in.

Her closest rival was J. Ramsden of Grantham Air Rangers who threw almost half this distance—54ft. 10in.

Most of the 100 yds races were very close events.

In the junior boys' 100 yds, N. Hall and G. Wollerton were both given the time of 11.2 secs, Hall being the winner.

WEEK-END ON I.T.V

AFTER the news at 1.40 p.m. on Saturday, ABC-TV will be going straight over to the All-England Club, Wimbledon, at 1.45 p.m., to follow the most exciting afternoon of the "Wimbledon Fortnight."

Britain's happiest and zaniest comedians — Morecambe and Wise — star in their own show at 9.30.

TELEVISION'S eerie series, "Out of This World" continues at 10, introduced by Boris Karloff. The title of this week's story is "Little Lost Robot" and it is a scientific "what-if" with a winner of the intermediate 100 yds.

tary programme dealing with attempts at illegal entry at London Airport seen last year.

Give us another channel and we will put on "Bucknell's House" at a different time. This was the BBC's answer when, in response to viewers' requests, I asked why it is transmitted at the very miss-able time of 6.20 p.m.

Do-it-yourselfers can say what they like. The BBC knows from scientifically-worked-out statistics that most people want to watch Eric Sykes or Jimmy Edwards or Sid James—even in repeat form—between 7 p.m. and 9.30 p.m.

Barry's programme will catch about 3,000,000 viewers and this counts as a minority audience.

For after-seven viewing the BBC want to court the majority—the 10,000,000 touch. And one way to do this is to declined Associated-Rediffusion's offer to network their Festival of London programmes.

These begin on July 9 with a reception attended by the Queen and include concerts in which Yehudi Menuhin, Artur Rubenstein (making his first TV appearance anywhere) and singer Elisabeth Schwarzkopf appear.

Apart from Londoners, only viewers in Wales and Aberceen will see the Festival programmes.

WATCH OUT FOR THIS

Helen Cherry makes one of her fairly rare appearances on TV later this year. She is in a 17th-century musical play called "The Breckenstein Affair," which has just been recorded.

Watch out for this—the sets are really sumptuous and the costumes splendid.

Oddly enough, Helen's husband Trevor Howard is also in a period play on TV. He plays opposite Ingrid Bergman in Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," later in the year.

NOT SO FLIPPANT

"Men—on Women" is the title of the programme Granada TV are doing in reply to "Women on Men," which caused quite a stir.

The men will be talking about women on July 18—with Brian Inglis as chairman and Malcolm Muggeridge taking part.

I'm told this will not be quite such a flippant programme. It is called "Up a Gum Tree" and is described as a satirical comedy featuring a British and a Russian colonel.

Others in the cast of this play, which is booked for transmission in July, include Tristram Jellinek, Fabia Drake and Dan Jackson. It has been written by William Douglas Home.

Telebriefly...

The BBC are devoting eight programmes to The Twist, beginning on July 7. In the first programme "Compact" is matched against "Juke Box Jury" in a Twist competition.

ATV are preparing a series titled "Trials of Tomorrow." Aim is to anticipate and describe conflicts which may emerge following advances in science and technology—including excursions into space.

Associated-Rediffusion network a series of Algeon Blackwood spine-chillers in "Tales of Mystery" starting on July 4.
